

Governor Wolf Extends “Stay-At-Home” Order For Southeastern Pennsylvania To June 4

Governor Wolf last night announced that the stay-at-home order for Southeastern Pennsylvania, including Montgomery County, had been extended through June 4.

The governor's action extends the previous stay-at-home order, which was set to expire at midnight last night. The extension maintains all the requirements of the initial order, including the closure of non-essential businesses.

The governor's plan to reopen Pennsylvania identifies red, yellow and green phases. A county, counties or region is assigned a phase based on coronavirus conditions.

North Wales Water Authority Recommendation

As buildings reopen, the North Wales Water Authority is reminding building owners and operators to take a proactive approach that includes flushing stagnant water from facility plumbing systems.

Extended periods of inactivity can cause lead leaching or bacterial growth in a building's water system and taking proper steps can help minimize exposure to both of these contaminants.
